“ This is RaShauna Hill his second youngest, as it almost becomes 9 years since my father has passed I still cry as if he died today. I miss him so much, there's a hole in my heart that will never be healed. My father was amazing it hurts that he won't ever experience none of his kids walk the stage or walk them down the aisle. It hurts me that I didn't get to know much about him. The memories that we hold will never leave me. I miss everything about him. I miss the smell of his farts, I miss him hugging on my head while we're in the store. I miss him hitting my forehead saying that's tough love, I miss his presence...I love you so much daddy
