Jeff was the ultimate safety guy. Looked for perfection, but could appreciate honest effort.. He was as dedicated to this profession as he was his family. He will be missed, and he is missed. A great friend has been taken from us. God bless you and assist those that will miss you.

Was proud to call him a friend and to have worked with a good medic. I know that he loved his family very much and talk about them often. He will be missed, but memories we have and that can not be taken away.

“ So many memories will forever stay in my heart. Having him call me the other daughter will forever be my favorite. It was a privilege to have him as a second dad to me. He always knew how to give the best advice and knew just about everything. I will take with me all the knowledge he gave to me and keep forever. Thanks for always giving me hugs even when you were grilling and said I'm sweaty watch out! Thanks for being the very best dad to my best friends and a wonderful husband to my second mom! I will forever miss you just as everyone else will! Until we meet again, with all my love.

“ Jeff was an outstanding safetyman always looking out for his crew and ways to improve safety standards in the oil industry. He was liked, and was respected by all that met him, always willing to teach a person how to do a task in a correct and safe manner as a mentor. The oil industry will miss this man. Semper Fi Jeff.

“ I met Jeff when he and Shelly bought my soap business. It was obvious that they were one of those couples who were meant to be together. I loved his sense of humor and all of his funny stories. It was a pleasure to work with him for a short time and an honor to call him a friend.

“ I'll never forget the summers spent at Lake DeGray when we were all so young and life was carefree and forever. I'm so glad I got to reconnect with you on Facebook a couple of years ago. You never failed to engage me with your intellect and politics or make me laugh with some of the craziest things you posted. I love you and and take comfort in knowing I'll see again in Heaven.
