“ Never have I seen anyone handle a totally uncalled for putdown as beautifully as did Pat. I remember many years ago, when we were preparing for an multi-club home tour, she met an egreigious comment with total silence. She was a very class act then and in everything she did!

Pat and George were the perfect neighbors and I am privileged to live next to them.

George, John, Billie, In am sorry to miss coming today. I think I am coming down with the flu and of course do not want to share it. Love and condolences to you and yours. Virginia Staton

“ Treasure Box

*If there was a treasure box named Pat,
It would be filled with smiles, good wishes, everything gardening, this and that.*

Open it! You will find what you need.

Pat's inspirations and next years garden seed.

I now have a box filled with treasure.

For I met Pat; was given a friend, kindness without measure.

I open my treasure box; I smile at what I see.

There's Pat's garden seeds, inspiring, telling me not to forget; plant me!!

“ George, you do not know me but I knew Pat and there are not enough adjectives in the English language to describe Pat. You loved her for so many reasons and we loved her because she was so gracious, so kind, always so helpful, so thoughtful, so generous with her time, so friendly, so talented, so dependable, so lovely and for so many, many other reasons. She was a joy to work with and I can attest to that because I had the pleasure of working with her in South Central Region of National Garden Clubs. Needless to say she will be missed. I can relate to your loss because I lost my husband and no one really knows all that you feel, but I hope your faith, friends and family will help you in your grief. With Sympathy

“ *She was such a wonderful Christian woman. She had planned to attend her high school reunion last weekend, but her classmates were notified at the reunion she was in the hospital. She still made sure that her company supplied the floral decorations for each table. Proficient to the end. That was Patsy. We all admired her. Praying for her husband George and the family.
