“ Scott was the best little brother a sister could ask for! We would always chat on the phone and share lots of recipes and ways to cook different things! He was indeed a phenomenal cook! We were like most all siblings, wherein, we argued and fought with each other and that was ok, but none else could do that because we were very protective of each other! I remember when I went through ovarian cancer, Scott couldn't talk to me because he would cry out of fear of losing me and now it is I who is crying and completely heartbroken that will never hear his voice or see his smile again 😭. I love and miss him so much 😭❤️

“ Scott was like my first boyfriend when we were younger...gonna miss you....RIP because cancer is a silent killer and you usually don't find out you have it until it is too late to do anything.... I remember when he wanted a tattoo on his left buttocks and my sister did the tattoo for him “Cherry Buster” and a cherry or two.

“ Yrs ago when we were small kids ,my brother Scotty, me & 2 of our cousins were playing in the yard as the sun started to go down.i guess we were out there later than we had ever been before.The sun was bigger and really red.None of us had ever seen the sun look like that before.We stood there in shock and so amazed until we came to the conclusion, that it must be the end of the world.God would surely be arriving real soon...My cousin ran as fast as she could to get the phones we need to call the preacher and get forgiveness. The 4 of us huddle together scared and telling each other how sorry we were for anything we might have done to hurt each other.with our arms wrapped around each we said I love you and then the preacher answered ...my cousin in a soft crying hysterical voice proceeded to tell him ,it's the end of the world and we need to forgive. I will always remember his laugh as he assured us it wasn't the end of the world.I can still see scottie big brown eyes looking at me, he was trying to stay strong because I was so scared..I love and miss you.i know you are in a much better place now.you have you angel wings brother,fly high with happiness for you shall never cry another tear of sadness.
