“ I've only known Scott for a very short period of time. The first time I met him was with Nessa at the race. Though he didn't say much, he still made me feel welcomed. I'm saddened that I won't get to know him better, but I'm glad to have met him during my stay in Arkansas.

“ So sorry for the lost of Scott. He was a great guy that loved his kids and his wife. He loved to race and ride motorcycles. We have so many memories that it would take up so much space to tell them all Scott and Alex was are running buddies and we enjoyed it. We went to New Orleans and we all went on a boat ride to see the Alligators and they was so happy. Then we went down town and had one of the best times of our lives. That was only one of the best times we all had together. Scott was a great friend and he left behind a wonderful wife and friend that loved him dearly. Scott you will be missed very much and we will all meet again one day. We love you Scott Gower. You are at peace now and no longer hurting.

“ We put a new motor In my racecar and we finished to late to break it in ,so I had to work the next day til 1pm .He said he would do it the next morning. I called about 930 the next morning to see how it did and said bring oil dry it blew up. Mad allday at work I got a call from another friend and said check the oil when you get there. So I got off work made it to his shop and walked in and sure enough oil all under my car ,I walked in grabbed the dip stick and I was full. I don't knew what all I threw at him but he was laughing the whole time, with that Scott Gower grin on his face..I ended up laughing and had a great night at the track after his sananagains, so when I wired his kitchen all the plugs where upside down (pranks that made me mad at first but realized it was fun after words)Scott always made me think don't be so serious and have some fun.Will always miss my friend fly high and God speed bro.To many memories to mention but all where fun at the end.

“ One of, if not the single happiest moment I have seen on Nessa’s face was when we pointed you out in the UNF crowd at her graduation. Never in a million years did we think you would’ve been able to summon the effort and courage it took to travel and be there for an incredible milestone in her life. Not only that, you somehow managed to find a way to connect with my parents, people of totally different backgrounds. The world is less happy without your carefree chuckles. We miss you, are crushed by the news, and hope you’ve found your peace.
