“ Chuck was a very good husband, father, and friend. I met Chuck through Barry in 2007 and I loved every minute that I spent with him. Seeing him run sound at the attic and at the church. Cracking jokes and cooking some mighty fine meals. I grew very close to him through all the conversations we had whether Barry was around or not. After school, I would go talk to Chuck for hours until Barry got home from work. We talked about everything under the moon. He never said a negative thing to me and always listened when I needed it. He saw me laugh and he saw me cry. I cannot remember a single time where he complained about anything. He was always optimistic. I unfortunately was not able to say goodbye in the end but I know where ever he is he knows that I miss and love him and we will still have our conversations. Nancy, I am sorry for your loss you know I always looked up to y'all like my own parents. Your boys will continue to joke around just like Chuck taught them too. With love- Dru
